

LENROOT BLAMES WILSON FOR UNREST

Wisconsin Senator, Speaking to Republicans Here, Predicts Victory for Party.

DISCUSSES HIGH PRICES

Says if Knox Resolution Is Vetoed People Will Buy Democracy.

Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin, whose friends believe he is distinctly of Presidential size, aroused the New York County Republican Committee to heights of enthusiastic approval last night when he discussed before its members the peace treaty, the high cost of government and the high cost of living. They cheered again and again when the Senator declared: "We have got to have a man in the White House who is thinking some of the time about the American people and not all the time about Europe."

Prior to the meeting the Senator was a guest at the regular monthly dinner of the executive committee of the county committee of the Republican Club. Others present were Herbert Parsons, National Committeeman; Charles D. Hillis, Ogden L. Mills, James R. Sheffield, F. H. La Guardia and William Boyce Thompson, all delegates to the National Convention.

Predicts Success for G. O. P.

After predicting success for the Republicans Senator Lenroot took up the causes of unrest in America. The first, he said, was the fact that technically the country was still at war due to the instance of President Wilson that the treaty be held up unless it could be passed substantially in the form that he brought it back.

"The fact is we entered the war not to save the peoples of Europe but to save the independence and liberty of the United States," he said. "Having done so much, I do not believe that we are going to assume the guardianship of the world for all time to come."

Declaring that had a league with Article X been in existence, France would have had to fight with England against the American colonies and this nation would never have come into existence. Senator Lenroot said: "The United States has never obligated itself to fight on the side of France and England, but we have never said that we are not going to fear any referendum on that point. Whatever may be the division among parties in the United States there are red blooded men enough in the United States so that, if that is the issue, there will not be enough Democratic votes left to carry a single Northern State."

Declaring that Italy, France and England, having each taken a mandate over a rich part of the former Turkish territory, wanted to hand us a mandate for an unproductive section, the speaker said he believed the country who got "the banks" ought also to take "the poor house."

"Not a Snap at Wilson."

"It was not intended as a snap at the President," said the speaker, referring to the reservation that no agency should represent this country in the League of Nations without the approval of Congress, "but frankly circumstances made it absolutely necessary for us to take these precautions. When you consider the character of the people he appointed to the peace conference—some 1,500 of them—it does not need any argument to prove our point."

"Those are the reservations that the President says nullify the treaty," added the speaker, "and upon which he wants a solemn referendum in November. If he had contented himself with negotiating the treaty and submitting it to the Senate, as was his duty, and left the Senate to perform its functions without dictation from him, the treaty would have been ratified with the reservations and we would have been at peace to-day."

"They say the President will veto the resolution terminating the war. If so, so be it. Then we will have to content ourselves until March 4, when we will have a Republican President and a Republican Congress, who will carry out the mandates of solemn referendum. Then we will have peace."

The Senator spoke of the high cost of a government that bought a branding iron for each two horses in the army and the high cost of living, which, he said, could be brought down by increasing production and curtailing consumption. The Government could help by favoring essential industries at the expense of non-essential through the Federal Reserve Bank and the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

THREE CANDIDATES 'COURT FUND INQUIRY'

Lowden, Hoover and Johnson Men Say Books Are Open.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Commenting on the resolution passed by the Senate to-day ordering an investigation of campaign expenditures of Presidential candidates, L. L. Emerson, chairman of Gov. Frank O. Lowden's campaign, said: "When Senator Borah demanded an accounting of all campaign contributions and expenditures Gov. Lowden immediately agreed to submit such a statement, provided the other candidates would comply. I went to Washington for that purpose. I was not called upon to make an accounting, although I was prepared then and am ready now to do so. There have been no contributions or expenditures which we are not willing to have the public know."

Chicago headquarters for Herbert Hoover issued this statement: "We welcome an investigation of what we are spending because it is so trivial." Edgar J. Cooke, manager of the Johnson headquarters here, said: "We will at any time or place give to the Senate or anybody else a full list of money received and disbursed by us and the names of contributors. There are no strings attached to any of the contributions and our books are wide open for investigation."

STEVENS TO OPPOSE MOSES.

Quits Ship Board to Run for New Hampshire Senatorship.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Raymond B. Stevens, vice-chairman of the Shipping Board and vice-president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, has resigned to enter the race for Senator in New Hampshire on the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Stevens had no opposition in the State, as the Democratic nominee to oppose Senator George W. Moses, Republican, who is managing the campaign for Gen. Leonard Wood, is in the South. He will leave the Shipping Board June 1 to begin an active campaign.

working quietly in Marshall's behalf. It was due to them that the following was inserted in the platform adopted to-day: "We have great pride in Thomas H. Marshall, in the distinction with which he has served as Vice-President under trying conditions and in the soundness of his convincing expressions of party doctrine and we have noted with utmost satisfaction his increasing consideration throughout the country of his eminent fitness for the Presidency."

The only avowed period in the convention came when former Gov. Samuel Ralston, permanent chairman, declared that the Indiana delegation would go to San Francisco to do everything possible to nominate Marshall. The latter, with a quiet story, likened Ralston's remarks to "sweetened wind," but did not say to the convention that he is in no sense a candidate.

Democratic leaders here assume that Marshall's speech was prepared for nationwide consideration and with the purpose of placing his "back to normal" slogan in the hands of his chosen friends, who have arranged to send a large contingent to San Francisco by special train.

The Vice-President was elected a member of the "Big Four," and will be a candidate for the chairmanship of the resolutions committee, according to report here.

INDIANA CONVENTION INDORSES WILSON

Names a Woman as Candidate for State Office.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20.—Although several political parties have broken up to-day, the business of the Democratic State Convention moved with clocklike precision. Keynote addresses of Vice-President Thomas H. Marshall and Claude G. Bowers of Port Wayne had been heard, delegates at large to the National Convention had been named, a platform adopted and a complete State ticket nominated when adjournment sine die was taken at 2:30 o'clock.

For the first time in the history of Indiana, a woman, Miss Adelaide Steele Baylor of Indianapolis, received a place on the State ticket of one of the two major parties. Women delegates, an important part throughout the deliberations of the one day convention.

Mrs. Adelbert Flynn of Logansport was a member of the resolutions committee which drafted the party platform. She also from the floor of the convention nominated Miss Baylor as the candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Mrs. Alice Foster McCulloch of Port Wayne was named a member of Indiana's "Big Four" to San Francisco and three other women were named alternate delegates at large.

The home of Woodrow Wilson was cheered every time it was mentioned and his Administration was strongly indorsed. A demand was made for the ratification of the peace treaty and the League of Nations.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM READY

Committee Has Finished Summary for Delegates.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—A summary of reports collected by the Republican committee on platform and policies, whose executive committee just has ended a two days' session here, is to be presented to the resolutions committee at the Chicago convention. Arrangements for its presentation so as to avoid swamping the resolutions committee with replies to the committee's questionnaires and sub-committee reports were made at conferences to-day between Chairman Hays of the national committee, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, temporary chairman of the convention, and other Republican leaders.

122 CONTESTS FOR G. O. P. CONVENTION

More Fights for Seats Expected, With Results on Nomination Involved.

MOST FROM THE SOUTH

Florida Has Three Sets of Delegates—Wood and Lowden Chiefly Affected.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Contests for 122 of the 984 votes in the Republican Convention in Chicago had been filed with Secretary Miller of the National Committee when the preliminary filing period expired to-day.

More contests were expected, before both the National Committee and the convention's credentials committee, with the possibility of decisive results on the nomination. Great piles of briefs already filed here indicated a monumental task for the National Committee when it begins hearings on the contests in Chicago May 31, a week prior to the convention opening.

About one-eighth of the convention votes are placed in dispute by the contests already filed. More are expected to be presented to the National Committee and the credentials committee.

All but four of the 122 contests filed are from Southern Democratic States. The exceptions are disputes over two delegates from the Minnesota Tenth District and two from the District of Columbia, where citizens are disenfranchised.

Besides the contests for votes forty-seven surplus delegates have been chosen from nine States, with fractional votes. The National Committee will be called on to decide whether to rule against fractional voting delegations, which stand and seats denied to surplus delegates.

The principal contests are between supporters of Major-John and Gov. Lowden. Senator Johnson and other candidates are not interested directly in these disputes, but may raise questions regarding primary contests in North Dakota, New Jersey, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, South Dakota and other States.

The 122 contests already filed are divided as follows: Arkansas, 7; Florida, 8; Georgia, 15; Louisiana, 12; Minnesota, 2; Mississippi, 12; Missouri, 4; North Carolina, 17; Oklahoma, 6; South Carolina, 11; Tennessee, 4; Texas, 7; Virginia, 14, and the District of Columbia, 2. Of these, entire delegations from five States—Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Virginia—are in dispute.

Most of the Southern States contests are factional, being between the so-called "Lily White" and "Black and Tan" factions. A few of the contestants are pledged to Gen. Wood, a few to Gov. Lowden, but most are unaffiliated, with fairly well known leanings.

Besides those already filed, further contests are expected from Alabama, Texas and possibly other States. In Arkansas are four delegations at large, one seat in the First District and two in the Fifth (Little Rock) are contested between the "Lily White" and "Black and Tan" factions. The Arkansas fight results from a list of negroes from the one seat in the First District. The "Lily Whites" also elected eight delegates at large with a half vote each.

Florida has three full sets of delegates contesting for the four seats at large and four district votes.

SPROUL OR KNOX MAY GET PENN. DELEGATES

Penrose to Be Made Chairman at Caucus in June.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—Pennsylvania's delegates to the Republican National Convention will meet in this city June 2 or 3 to select a chairman and agree upon a programme to be followed in Chicago, according to an announcement made here to-day by Senator Penrose. Alternates and members of the newly elected State Committee have been invited to attend the meeting, which a chairman of the delegation will be chosen. Senator Penrose is expected to be named chairman.

When asked whether the delegation would indorse Gov. Sproul for the Presidency, Senator Penrose said that would have to be decided at the caucus of the delegation.

"There is a strong sentiment for Gov. Sproul and there also has been strong expression for Senator Knox," he said.
